August 6th Minutes & stuff

The August meeting started exactly on time, it seems that our fearless leader, Mister President Robbie Bridges, has finally figured out how to tell time. Two of our more prominent absentees were VP Peter Whichamacallit and Treasurer Glenn Fumbler. (Sure hope they aren't together in Las Vegas with all the clubs money.) Robbie reviewed the raffle material and also introduced a couple of visitors including Bob Scholars son Michael.

After a short question and answer period which solved all the worlds software problems the meeting was turned over to our esteemed 8 BIT software chairman Bob Scholar.

Bob demonstrated our volume 14 number 8 Floppy. Which means this silliness has been going on pretty close to fourteen years, pretty soon we will have been in business longer than Atari. Bob also mentioned that next months floppy would be done by Terry Stearns, so that he could take a little time off to have some surgery taken care of. (By the way Bob, after you left the meeting it was voted unanimously that while you were in the hospital you should hold out for a whole body transplant. The only discussion about this transplant was whether it should be from the neck up or from the neck down. After a bit of discussion on this point it was decided that we couldn't stand the shock of a new head so go for the body only.) Everybody hopes Bob's surgery will be easy and recovery rapid, mainly because nobody wants to put up with Terry any longer than necessary.

Speaking about Atari and business in the same breath seems to be an error at this point in time as they have dropped the Atari name for the stock listings and now are known as JTS. Changing the listing hasn't done much good for stock prices which are again in the three dollar area. To bad they couldn't keep it going a bit longer what with this new craze, the Internet, the really low cost of hard drives and chips, they could have been in line with a good low cost entry level machine. Oh well. It seems this Internet thing isn't much different than an updated BBS system. From what I have found so far some of the old BBS's were more interesting.

Our friendly enemies from ABACUS across the bay have come up with a really first class idea for their next meeting. They are going to assemble a PC clone at the meeting, from what the newsletter article states this will become the Clubs Computer. Considering the great talent in the ABACUS club it will probably turn out to be a retarded 684 with glitches.

See you at the meeting
